

City Home Inmates' Care Cost 96 Cents a Day

Per Capita Cost for The Year Was $352.94, According to Annual Report of Superintendent Edmonston — Charity Board Adopts Budget Calling for $44,746 to Carry on Relief Work Next Year.

During 1924 it cost the taxpayers of Kingston the sum of $352.94 or a daily expenditure of 96 cents to care for each inmate at the City Home, according to the figures submitted in the annual report of Superintendent Thomas H. Edmonston at a meeting of the Charity Commissioners held at the City Home on Wednesday evening. President J. Leonard Salzman presided with Commissioners William B. Byrne and Ernest W. Kearney present.

The budget to carry on the work of the board in 1925 calls for an appropriation of $44,746, and was unanimously approved by the board.

A State Inspection.
Superintendent Edmonston read a report from the state of an inspection made of the City Home on October 6, by Inspector W. L. Chase which was a very favorable report stating that everything had been found in a clean and sanitary condition and that the inmates of the institution were being well treated and fed. Inspector Chase summarized the principal needs. He said the sitting rooms were inadequate and there were no verandas for inmates, that much new flooring was needed in the building and that the only medical record is a register of the physician's visits.

After adopting the budget and approving the fifty-fourth annual report of the superintendent, the board adjourned to the January meeting when officers for 1926 will be elected.

Commit Gargana To Reformatory

Youth Convicted of Serious Crime Determined Not to Be Mentally Defective and Is Committed to Elmira Institution—New Lawyers in Case.

Salvatore Gargana, 22 years old, found guilty of sodomy after a trial in county court last week, was sentenced Wednesday to Elmira State Reformatory until discharged by law. Gargana's case was held for a few days by County Judge Joseph M. Fowler pending an examination of the young man by Dr. Palmer from the Napanoch Institution for Defective Delinquents to determine whether he was mentally deficient. The examination was held Tuesday afternoon and it was found that Gargana was not a mental defective and he was consequently sent to Elmira.

County court convened in the supervisor's rooms shortly after 2 o'clock Wednesday as the Supreme court was in session in the court room. District Attorney Traver immediately moved judgment in the case. D. W. Ostrander of Clinton, justice of the peace before whom Gargana was arraigned following the crime and who held him for the grand jury, appeared in the case with S. G. Carpenter, attorney for Gargana. Mr. Ostrander asked that the boy be held by the sheriff pending further action by the boy's counsel. He said that Mr. Lent had first been attorney for the boy and later Mr. Carpenter and he had taken over the case. Now he had been informed, a New York attorney had been employed by an uncle of the boy to take the case. The New York attorney had in turn secured Judge William D. Brinnier, Jr., to handle the matter for him here.

Mr. Brinnier was not in town, having been called to White Plains on business. Mr. Ostrander said that although he believed he was about to be relieved in the case, still he wanted to make every effort possible to save the young man from being sent away. He requested the court to hold Gargana for a time here so that if an application for a certificate of reasonable doubt was made by the new attorney in the case, the boy would be here. He asked the judge to make an order to the sheriff staying the transfer of the boy to Elmira.

Mr. Traver objected to the request and stated that there was nothing before the court on which to make such an order and that there had been ample time to make application for a certificate of reasonable doubt if counsel had so desired. It would be some time before the testimony in the case could be written out and new counsel, if there were one in the case, must have the testimony before making the application and that the court could not hold the boy here in jail for such a time. If a certificate of reasonable doubt is secured, the boy can be brought back from Elmira.

Judge Fowler stated that the boy would not be taken away for a few days and if the sheriff was shown that there was reason for holding the boy he could do so, but there was nothing before the court to grant an order compelling the sheriff to hold the boy in jail here. There was assurance that application for a certificate of reasonable doubt would be made.

Court then adjourned sine die.

Issue Bonds to Repay Germans

For Property Seized During the War—Private American Claims Against Germany Will Also Be Guaranteed.

Washington, Dec. 10.—Complete reimbursement to German nationals for property seized during the war and the payment of private American claims against Germany will be guaranteed under a new 25-year five per cent bond issue announced today by the secretary of the treasury.

To settle the claims, the government agrees to waive rights to German reparations totaling about $320,000,000. This money will be used to repay German nationals. The reparations include $250,000,000 for army of occupation costs.

The new plan was evolved out of negotiations between the government and some of the principal owners of the properties. Its adoption would partially satisfy that element in Congress which has consistently advocated the restoration to Germans of private properties seized during the war.

Sentenced For Six Months.
Goachimo Starni was committed to the Ulster county jail for six months by Judge Frederick Simpson of the town of Rochester on Wednesday, who found him guilty on a charge of petit larceny. The man has been living in a shack built by himself in the woods and has been committing small depredations.

District Nurses' Meeting.
A meeting of District No. 11, New York State Nurses' Association, will be held Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Middletown State Hospital. All district members are cordially invited to attend.

An Ambulance Call.
Mrs. Wilson Lester was removed from her home on Albany avenue to the Kingston City Hospital in the ambulance Wednesday.

Who Shall Stand Next to Governor

Republican Legislative Leaders and Governor Smith Disagree on Relative Importance of State Officials Under Reorganization Plan—Report Ready for Legislature in January.

Albany, Dec. 10.—The committee headed by Charles E. Hughes, which is preparing a plan for the reorganization of the state government to carry out Governor Smith's constitutional amendment, will be ready to report to the 1926 Legislature by the latter part of January, according to a report reaching the Capitol today.

While the committee's report on how the reorganization should be done is expected to be along lines that would be acceptable to the governor, there is nothing, however, to indicate the report will be acceptable to the Republican leaders of the Legislature.

Friends of Governor Smith said today there is certain to be a hot fight between the governor and the G. O. P. leaders of the Legislature if the latter attempt to legislate any Republican office holders into permanent jobs under the reorganization plan.

If the governor could have his way, it was said today, he would make the office of secretary of state next in importance to that of the governor by transferring to that office many of the duties and functions of present state bureaus and agencies.

Republican leaders, however, are said to believe that the attorney general should be the next ranking officer to the governor. It is reported they will favor the transfer of many bureaus to the attorney general instead of the secretary of state. It was said that the Republicans did not take this stand because the present secretary of state was a woman but because they felt the attorney general, as the state's chief law officer, was better qualified.

Should the Republicans and the governor fail to reach a compromise on any of the reorganization measures, the executive still will hold the whip hand because he will be in a position to veto the bills passed by the lawmakers.

Next week the governor expects to begin work on his annual message.

Devine Pleads Not Guilty

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 10.—Albert Devine, 44, former alderman, pleaded not guilty when arraigned in police court today on a charge of murder, first degree, in connection with the slaying of his wife, Catherine.

Devine is alleged to have crushed his wife's head with a hammer early in September and buried her body under the porch of their home on upper Central avenue.

When first arrested, Devine, according to the police, made a complete confession of the crime. Later he issued a statement through his attorney, Joseph L. Delaney, saying he killed his wife in self defense.

Charles Must Support Wife

Joseph Charles of No. 231 Second avenue was arrested Wednesday by the police on a warrant obtained by his wife, charging him with non-support. After a hearing before Judge Schirick in police court this morning Charles was placed under bond to pay his wife $7 weekly toward her support.

Santo Tourise and son, John, of Port Ewen, were arrested Wednesday by Motor Inspector Briggs. The father was charged with allowing his son to operate the car without a license and the son for driving without a license. Sentence was suspended and arrangements made for the boy to obtain a junior license.

Three Children Burned to Death

Montreal, Que., Dec. 10.—Three children were burned to death and three men were severely burned early today when fire destroyed a house in the Indian reserve at Caughnawaga. All were residents of the Indian village.

The children, 2, 5 and 7 years old, were asleep in the house alone when the fire started. Their father, Joseph Curran, discovered the fire and with the two other men of the village, made a futile attempt to rescue the children.

Federal Council Adopts Report

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 10.—The Federal Council of Churches, through its executive committee, today went on record as reaffirming its belief in prohibition and adopting in its essentials the report of its administrative committee on prohibition which became a storm center when it was published several months ago.

Norris Predicts G. O. P. Downfall

Spokesman For Insurgent Bloc Says Continued Punishment of Senators Who Disagree With President Will Result in Driving G. O. P. From Power.

Washington, Dec. 10.—Republicans who seek to throw out of the party those who do not agree with them were warned today by Senator George W. Norris, Republican of Nebraska, spokesman for the insurgent bloc, that their discipline would be a step toward provoking a political revolution which could end only in driving the G. O. P. from power.

Further punishment of senators, who disagree with the president, Norris declared, would "make a mockery of the Constitution and destroy the constitutional prerogatives of Congress" to act as a check upon the chief executive. He denounced the proposed chastisement of Senator Bob LaFollette as an effort on the part of a "few self constituted leaders" to dominate the American government, and named President Coolidge as one of those responsible.

Administration leaders meanwhile were still seeking a compromise of the intra-party row which followed efforts of Senators Watson, Republican of Indiana, and Butler, Republican of Massachusetts, to force the expulsion of LaFollette. A party conference undoubtedly will be called to settle the issue by a formal vote.

Norris, however, denounced the delay in seating Young Bob.

"When a man gets the Republican nomination in his state and is elected by the Republicans of his state to the senate, no one, not even President Coolidge, Jim Watson or Chairman Butler has the right to order him excluded from the Republican party," said Norris. "If they are going to establish a three man autocratic triumvirate to punish senators who speak their convictions, it is time for the country to find that out."

"These alleged Republican leaders are demonstrating they are incompetent to administer authority. They are riding to ruin and a continuation of such a policy of autocratic power can end only in a political revolution, which will drive them all out of office."

"Young LaFollette apparently is not concerned with the fight over his Republicanism. He declined to comment on the issue and told inquirers, he had asked for no assignments from the Republican party."

SECOND DOCTOR FIGURES IN LYMAN GIRL'S DEATH

Northampton, Mass., Dec. 10.—A second physician today was drawn into the investigation of the tragic death of Miss Jessie Lyman, secretary to a college professor, when a practitioner living near here was questioned.

The doctor is reported to have treated Miss Lyman before she went to the private hospital of Dr. Clarence I. Sparks, a native of Meriden, Conn., who has resigned his post as associate medical examiner of Hampshire county, following his appearance before Governor Fuller. The authorities have questioned Dr. Sparks concerning the girl's death by supposed illegal surgery.

Further action appeared today to depend upon the outcome of an inquest to be held at an early date.

Donovan Begins Big Contract

Keel Laid for First of Ten of Biggest Barges Ever Built in This City—Another Contract Calls for Construction of Five Barges.

The B. J. Donovan boat yards on East Strand have been awarded a contract to build ten of the largest barges ever built in this city for The Rockland Lake Traprock Company.

The keel for the first barge was laid this morning at the yard by B. J. Donovan amid appropriate ceremonies. The barges will be used for transporting crushed stone to New York and New England points which necessitates their being of exceptional sturdy construction.

Besides the above contract for the ten barges, Mr. Donovan has also secured the contract for the building of five barges for New York concerns. These barges will be of similar construction and will be used in the transportation business in New York harbor.

This is one of the largest contracts for the construction of barges that has ever been written at one time in the history of the boat building industry in this city.

As the barges are to be rushed to completion, according to the terms of the contracts, it insures steady employment for the men at the yards all winter without any interruption. Mr. Donovan is all smiles and is receiving the congratulations of his fellow boat builders and friends very modestly.

Dramatics Class Meets Saturday

Miss Mary Eva Duthie, specialist in dramatics, who has been conducting the class in dramatics for the Ulster County Home Bureau, is coming Saturday, December 12, to give the last lesson in the course.

The attendance and interest at the meetings have been far beyond expectations, and it is hoped that all having previously enrolled in the class can arrange to be present.

In offering this course in the county the Home Bureau has cooperated with other organizations of the county and the response has been wonderful. Granges, Parent-Teacher Associations, Churches, Sunday schools, Ladies' Aids, the Twentieth Century and Sorosis Clubs have enrolled leaders for the course. Home Bureau units in the county have sent leaders and all together Miss Duthie has had one of the largest classes she has ever held in the state.

The meeting Saturday will be held in the Y. W. C. A. gymnasium beginning at 10:30.

Italian Troops Fire on Greeks

Athens, Dec. 10.—Italian troops fired into milling crowds of Greek inhabitants of the Dodanese Islands, wounding several, according to advices received here from the islands today.

Clashes between the Greeks and Italian soldiery occurred as a result of the efforts on the part of the latter to put into effect a law compelling all inhabitants of the islands to become Italian citizens.

The Dodanese are a group of islands in the Aegean Sea near Greece.

The Greek government announced that it had forwarded a protest to the League of Nations complaining of oppressive measures practiced on Greek inhabitants of the islands by the Italians.

A report is current here that the trouble in the islands started when a Greek flag was hoisted.

George Heldron Sentenced to Pen

George Heldron of No. 3 Second avenue, was found guilty after a hearing before Judge Schirick in police court today of stealing a bag containing $29.59 from the place of business of Leo Gallo at No. 6 Hanratty street Sunday evening, and was sentenced to six months in the Albany penitentiary. Gallo claimed that Heldron was in his place and that later he missed the bag with the money.

ROBERT BROWN REPORTED AS IMPROVING SLOWLY

Robert Brown of No. 542 Broadway, who was badly injured when his auto was struck by a car driven by Oliver Foster, a negro, on Foxhall avenue Tuesday evening, was reported as being somewhat improved at the Benedictine Hospital where he was taken after the collision. Foster is being held in the county jail to await a hearing in police court next week.

No Preaching Services.

America Abreast Of Other Nations

In Technical Development of Aircraft For Military Purposes, Is Conclusion of Report of National Advisory Committee.

Washington, Dec. 10.—"America is at least abreast of other progressive nations in the technical development of aircraft for military purposes,"

This was the outstanding conclusion of the report of the national advisory committee for aeronautics, submitted to President Coolidge and sent by him to Congress today with a covering letter expressing approval.

President Coolidge characterized the committee's conclusion as "the most authoritative that can be had," and he commended it to Congress with an intimation that it should dispell any doubts that may have been raised by development of the past few months concerning America's progress in the air.

Disputes Mitchell Theory.

While not directly mentioning Colonel William Mitchell nor any of the charges that have created such a furor recently, the report of the national committee controverted the main thesis Colonel Mitchell has been expounding, that America has lagged behind the world in aircraft development. It alluded guardedly to the row by stating that: "The people of the United States are not so much concerned with the form and administration of the government's activities in aeronautics as they are with the question as to whether practicable and efficient results are being secured."

"It is only fair to say the best results have not been obtained and will not be obtained as long as the personnel are disturbed and their condition distracted from their real duties. It is most desirable, therefore, that measures to improve the situation be formulated and carried into effect without delay."

Frowns on Subsidy.

The committee's report recommended establishment of an air bureau in the department of commerce to promote commercial aviation, proposed greater governmental aid in assisting the conquering of the air by commerce but frowned on anything approaching government subsidy.

"Although the national committee has long been of the opinion that commercial aviation must largely make its own way in America, said the report, it believes that the government should aid commercial aviation in certain respects where government aid is practicable and necessary."

Most Pressing Needs.

Continuing, the report advised: "The most pressing needs requiring attention at this time are, first, legislation establishing the fundamental right of flight, creating a bureau of air navigation in the department of commerce for regulation and licensing of aircraft airports and aviators, and for the establishment, maintenance and lighting of adequate national airways, and providing for the necessary meteorological information; and second, the improvement of airplanes' design and structure with a view primarily to making airplanes safer, more controllable at low speeds, and less expensive in initial cost, maintenance and operation."

Continue Development.

It has yet to be demonstrated, the committee said, that airships of the Shenandoah type are practicable either for military or commercial usages. "It cannot be said, however, they are without value, nor that they have no future possibilities than have already been demonstrated. The fact of the matter is all types of airships are in the experimental stage of development."

"The time has come to one of two things, viz, either to carry on with the development of airships or stop altogether. As between the two alternatives, the national committee is of the opinion that development of airships should be continued."

Independent Agency.

"The national advisory committee is an independent government agency, created by Congress. Its chairman is Dr. Charles D. Walcott, head of Smithsonian Institution, and its personnel includes Orville Wright, Dayton, Ohio, President F. W. Stratton, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and representatives of the army and navy."

INTRODUCE BILL TO PREVENT COAL STRIKES

Washington, Dec. 10.—Representative George F. Brumm, Republican of Pennsylvania, announced today he would introduce a bill in Congress to prevent recurrence of coal strikes.

The measure would set up a federal board to fix miners' wages on a sliding scale, based on the price of coal at tidewater. This method, Brumm declared, was used effectively by President Roosevelt in dealing with a former coal tie up.

Brumm discussed the proposed bill at the White House, with Everett Sanders, secretary to the president.

Christians and Jews Nearer

Federal Council of Churches Gets Report of Committee Showing Better Understanding and Cooperation in Breaking Down Bigotry.

Detroit, Dec. 10.—For the first time in nearly 20 centuries, Jews and Christians have taken steps to come nearer one another in good will, understanding and fellowship, reported the Committee on Good Will Between Jews and Christians to the Executive Committee of the Federal Council of Churches this morning. The purpose of the committee, it is explained, is not to deal with distinctively religious or ecclesiastical concerns of either group, but to secure cooperation between Christians and Jews in matters of civic, social and international concerns and thereby break down bigotry and prejudice and promote mutual understanding.

The committee, of which Dr. Alfred Williams Anthony is chairman and John W. Herring secretary, records a wide range of activity. It believes that American anti-Semitism, which is largely social and economic, is passing away. For historical reasons, it says that Christian forces must take the lead in wiping the American slate clean. "The most encouraging result is the action of other religious groups both national and local," the report continues. "Five of the national Jewish organizations, touching the major part of American Jewry, have established corresponding committees on Good Will. Steps have been taken looking towards a salaried secretary of the Committee on Good Will Between Jews and Non-Jews appointed by the Central Conference of American Rabbis."

"The Federal Council committee is seeking a practical basis for a happier relationship. It has cooperated with other groups in setting up strong good will councils in Chicago and Cleveland with able directors in charge giving full time. It is working with 160 volunteer committees in other cities to the same ends."

"Important among the tangible achievements of the committee has been its cooperation with other groups in establishing the 'Midwest Council,' a very promising conference and forum program in the Middle West. The activities begun have no organic connection with the Federal Council, being local both in organization and support."

"The Midwest Council has in turn initiated work in a dozen cities scattered through the twelve states as its territory. The most notable of these are the Chicago Forum Council and the Cleveland Forum Council."

"The committee disbelieves in 'Pollyanna' good will. It believes, rather, that in our mixed America we should add an eleventh commandment to the decalogue: 'Thou shalt know thy neighbor.'"

Nutty Natural History

By HUGH HUTTON.

THE ORIENTAL RUGBUG.

This curious creature is often found living between the woops and the warps of imported mohair carpets, and is said to cause the rug dealers much grief by crying out "cheap—cheap—" whenever a customer draws near. As their main diet is mothballs, they are very hard to exterminate, and about the only thing that will cause them to turn up their toes is a good dose of gun cotton, saturated in nitric acid, a treatment that is rather hard on the rugs. They are easily caught, though, when they get outside a rug, like the one in the picture.

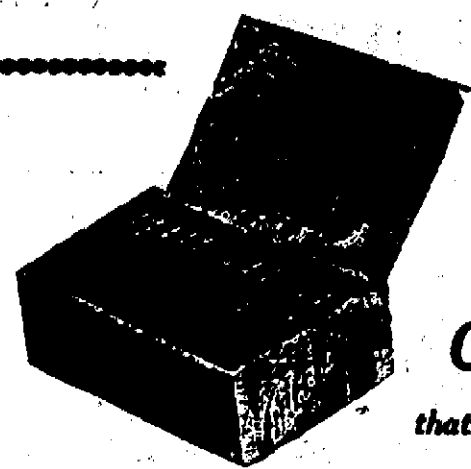

A walnut head, with split navy bean eyes added to a silver body, with half peanut shell wings and feet of cloves and lima beans, will equal the animal as a whole. Subtract any tail you may think he needs, as they would undoubtedly get entangled in the rug. (Metropolitan Newspaper Service.) (Tomorrow—The Olympia Zoo.)

You, Too, May Own a Closed Packard

MANY a man has longed all his life to own a closed Packard, and yet still drives a compromise car. Why?

He remembers the famous Packard "30" and "18" of 1910, the "38's" and "48's" of 1913, and the mighty Twin Six, America's first twelve cylinder car.

He remembers, too, that those fine cars—all of them—cost over $4,000 at the factory. And he has not yet learned that the Packard Six—a better car by today's standards than those he felt he could not afford—is priced far lower than any closed car Packard has built in 25 years.

Many do not know that the Packard Six five-passenger Sedan with all necessary accessories is but $2585 at Detroit and that it can be bought on a monthly payment plan.

When they do learn these two important facts there will be a lot of new Packard Six owners who have realized a lifetime ambition.

Fiddler Makes Good With Ford

Ford Is Pleased With Playing of "Mellie" Dunham, Champion Fiddler of Maine—Will Play at Old Fashioned Dance.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 10.—"Mellie" Dunham, a real down East fiddler, from Norway, Maine, has made good with Henry Ford.

Mellie was brought to Detroit by the motor car king in connection with his ambition to record the best in old fashioned American tunes. The fiddler and his wife, "Gram," lunched with Mr. and Mrs. Ford at their Dearborn home. After the lunch came the fiddling. Ford told about it today.

"He plays well," Ford said. "I brought out a Stradivarius and handed it to him. He played a waltz that was as good as anything I ever heard—that is to my liking."

Mellie played a medley of "Turkey in the Straw," "Money Musk," and "The Campbells are Coming" on the expensive instrument. It was the same combination of tunes that won Mellie the fiddling title of Maine.

"What was the waltz," Ford was asked.

"One of his own concoctions," the manufacturer replied.

"He called it 'Rippling Waves'."

"We are going over his music," Ford continued. "He also played a Yarrowienne that was very good. He played it differently from the way around here. He played the round dance first. In this part of the country they play the mazurka first."

Business called Ford to his office after Mellie had played a few tunes but Professor Benjamin B. Lovett, Ford's teacher in old time dancing, and others intrigued by Mellie's quaint tunes, tarried to hear some more. Mellie and Professor Lovett today were going over bits of music the professor wishes to add to Ford's collection.

Mellie and "Gram" have been introduced to the wonders of the Ford plant, through which they were shown yesterday. Tonight Mellie will play at an old fashioned dance to be given by Ford.

Automobile Club Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Automobile Club of Ulster County will be held at the court house on Monday evening, December 14, at 8 o'clock.

The call issued for the meeting states:

The automobilist has always been a shining target for the legislator seeking new means of revenue. Among other things next year they plan to put a two cent gasoline tax on top of the regular license fee. If this condition is to be stopped we must have more members. 15,000 registrations and only 500 members in Ulster county are not enough. There should be at least 2,500. Get one new member yourself. Be a booster. Help stop increased taxation. A larger organization is the only thing that will do it. Come to the meeting and bring a new member with you.

Aid Withheld, Avers Patrick

Washington, Dec. 10.—Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of army air service, testifying as a prosecution witness at the Colonel William Mitchell court martial, today accused the war department of withholding assistance in the proper development of aviation.

"We have not received as much assistance as the department could have given," said Patrick, under cross examination by Representative Frank R. Reid, Republican, of Illinois, defense counsel.

Patrick admitted under examination by Colonel Sherman Moreland, trial judge advocate, that America had the best pursuit planes in the world. In numbers, however, the country is outstripped by leading foreign powers, he added.

The gray haired air chief then was turned over for cross examination by Representative Frank R. Reid, (Republican of Illinois), defense counsel, who sought to show in just what respect America lagged behind in aviation development.

Patrick said De Havilland planes which Mitchell called "flying coffins" were obsolete.

"But we remodeled war time D-H planes because with the limited funds available we could not have purchased a sufficient number of new craft."

"The D-H plane is not unsafe. When we remodeled them we would use it until science could give us better planes. Better planes are available now and we are beginning to dispose of the older equipment," Patrick asserted.

Simple Instrument Invented for Driving Different Farm Animals

Flap-Jack for Driving Stock.

Flap-jacks, not the edible kind, will save millions of pounds of meat and hundreds of thousands of dollars for the live stock and meat industry.

This is the belief of live stock experts connected with the Institute of American Meat Packers and the Western Weighing and Inspection Bureau. These experts, R. W. Carter, chairman of the institute's committee on live stock losses, and W. J. Embree, chief veterinarian for the western weighing and inspection bureau, which represents all the larger western railroads explain that a flap-jack is a simple instrument used for driving live stock, and that its use is more humane and considerably less costly than the use of clubs, whips, pitchforks, and poles for driving animals. Losses from bruises and other injuries incurred in bringing live stock from the farm to the stock yards represent annually more than five million pounds of meat or several hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Makes Loud Noise.

The flap-jack—some call it a slap-jack—makes a loud noise when it is slipped against an animal, a fence or a building, but does not injure or bruise the animal. The noise which it makes is more effective than blows in inducing live stock to move.

Flap-jacks are rapidly coming into use in the various stock yards, and, according to Doctor Embree, and Mr. Carter, should be used by every handler of live stock.

A flap-jack for driving live stock effectively and without bruises is easily made. The accompanying illustration will show the way to make one.

How It Is Made.

Take a piece of canvas or any other strong stiff cloth goods about a yard square; lay it flat on a table and with a scissors cut from the near corners diagonally toward the upper middle of the sheet, making a sort of inverted V-shaped cut. About six inches from the top turn the point of the scissors inward a little. Cut off the two three-cornered pieces, as shown on the small sketch at the right. Then roll or fold the two "wings" inward one inch or less and a half laps. Fold in inverted V-shaped part in large six-inch lap, working from the outside edges inward. Turn up the little piece at the bottom (marked in dots in the diagram) to bind the end. Then sew the entire length of the flap-jack with strong thread in five or six rows of stitching and bind the six-inch handle part lightly with tape. The finished article is shown in the insert at the left above the table.

The flap-jack is more easily made than described on paper. Try it!

Hemp Is Best Crop to Smother Weeds

Suitable Protection to Avoid Winter Bee Loss

Proper winter protection for bees should be more carefully provided by the average beekeeper. Statistics for Iowa show that winter losses of bees, due to carelessness in wintering methods, often run as high as 18 per cent. This tremendous annual loss could be avoided for the most part if beekeepers would give the matter of wintering more thought.

Two general methods of wintering are outdoor or cellar wintering. Of these the former method is considered superior. In either method the essential things to provide are good ventilation, sufficient insulation against wind, protection against rodents and absorption of moisture given off by the bees.

Complete information on wintering bees by several methods as well as much reliable information on practically all phases of agriculture is contained in the report of the Iowa apiculturist for 1923. This booklet of nearly 100 pages was compiled by F. B. Padock, state apiculturist, Iowa State college, and will be mailed free upon application to him.

While championing the crop which has won a high place on the cropping lists of four Wisconsin counties, Wright insists that weed-infested soil must be properly prepared in order to give the hemp a chance. He is convinced that Canadian thistle and quack grass lands cannot be cleared by seedling them to hemp, if no more than ordinary preparation is given before seeding.

Wright recommends that such lands be thoroughly worked to destroy the mat of roots. According to him, a good way is to plow the infested soil in the late summer or early fall, then spring-tooth it thoroughly and keep it worked until the land freezes. The loosened roots should then be removed by raking and burning. If the land lacks fertility, it should be given a heavy application of manure in the fall. In the spring, the soil should be worked until the time the hemp is seeded. Good results can then be attained.

ROAD BUILDING

NEW ROADS REQUIRE PERMANENT BRIDGES

Traffic conditions on our roads today are so different from those of a few years ago that highway officials have found it difficult to comply with the ever increasing demands made by automobile and truck. One of the most important features of a good road is the construction and design of the bridges. The good bridge of today must be a permanent structure, free from maintenance

One day, at the table of the Iowa Mr. Foster (son of J. B.), just as the cloth was being removed, the subject of discourse happened to be that of an extraordinary mortality among lawyers. "We have lost," said a gentleman, "not less than six eminent barristers in as many months." The son, who was quite dead, rose at the friend finished his remarks, and said the company grace: "For this and every other mercy, the Lord's will be done."

THE WALRUS

"Now the other day," said the Walrus, "I heard in a round-about way, as one might say, that some one else wanted to hear about the food I ate."

"Yes, that is what I heard. It seems that a little girl told another little girl that she had heard about me and about my food and she began to tell her friend about me and about the story she had read about me."

"Well, the little friend said: 'Dear me, I'd like to read a story about the Walrus and his food, too.'"

"Now that news came to me from still another person and so once more I am going to tell my story."

"I have heard that thin people wanted to be fat and that fat people wanted to be thin, and that between them no one is satisfied—or not quite entirely satisfied."

"Well," said the Harbor Seal, "that may be true but it may not be true. I don't think it's a particularly interesting subject, do you?"

"Or has it to do with the story you were asked to tell?"

"More or less," said the Walrus. "My dear Harbor Seal, though you live along the coast of the Atlantic ocean and are a queer people than I am, you really haven't any brains."

"Now I come from the Arctic regions, north of America and Europe, and yet I believe I am more of a creature than you are."

"In size, perhaps," said the Seal. "In other ways I don't know and I really don't care."

"You prove to me," said the Walrus, "that to be an interesting creature one must take an interest in other things. Nothing interests you and you are as dull as can be."

"Some creatures might be insulted by such a speech," said the Seal, "but I do not care what you say."

"Well, I must say that you are queer and also that folks who aren't satisfied with themselves are queer."

"I've actually heard of people who ate food they did not like which would make them fat, and of others who went without food they greatly relished so they would become thin."

"Now I insist upon having food I like practically all of the time."

"That is why my family don't thrive in the zoo."

"If they can't get us food we like, we object, and so they say it is hard to keep a walrus in the zoo."

"It's not their fault that they can't always get our kind of food, for they try hard enough. I know that."

"But just the same we object and won't eat what we do not like."

"We love clams! They are hard to get sometimes, the keeper says, but I have been here for ages and I find the zoo pond they have given me a very pleasant place."

"We would not go without clams to be thin or fat—but we don't worry about such things as it is our nature to be fat, so we are fat!"

"That's simple."

"I should say you were a big creature," said the Seal from his pond.

"Certainly it would appear that you don't object to being fat."

"But you are wise not to let it worry you. That is very wise."

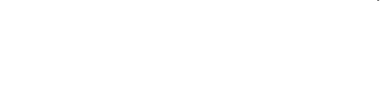

"If you felt sad about being fat, you would have to feel so very sad—because you're so very fat."

"Not bad, Seal, not bad—for you! Yes, I weigh more than four thousand pounds," the Walrus admitted proudly.

"Catch me trying to grow thin! I should say not! I am actually proud of my great and splendid weight, I am!"

"And I hope that when people discuss me they will not only talk about the food I eat and how I demand just certain food, but that they will also talk about my weight."

"After all, four thousand pounds in walrus is not to be sneezed at—that is if any one does sneeze actually at things they think beneath their notice. Still it is an expression even if it doesn't mean much."

No splendor of service can compensate for inferior or badly cooked food.

A college for women which does not send back to her home the daughter more willing and capable to enter into home problems and assist them with headiness and grace is not an institution of learning. It is an institution of unlearning.—Frank Connelley

HELPFUL HINTS
All fruits should be washed before serving. Such fruit as strawberries when not to be used at once, should be spread out on a large plate or dish. If left in boxes they crush and also mold quickly.

Silk stockings will last much longer if washed after each wearing. Prespiration on the fibers, so frequent washing makes them last longer.

Use a few drops of turpentine in the boiler when you wash clothes—it will whiten them. Added to starch it makes collars look glossy.

To stretch butter, add a cupful of sweet fresh milk to a pound of butter, softened enough to be worked into it. Butter thus treated will not keep as long as the original, but it goes much farther when spread on bread. It should be used within a day or two, however, as it is apt to become sour.

Two or three measuring cups should be kept ready for use. Have them standard half-pint size and marked in eighths, quarters and halves. The advantage of two or more cups is that one may be used for liquids and one for dry ingredients without stopping to wash them.

A small sized scrub brush kept in the kitchen sink will be found to save hands and patience in washing dishes, such as graters, and any dish which has dried on food.

Frost stains on linen may be removed by sprinkling it once with salt. Fruit stains of jam or jelly should be touched with spirits of camphor before removing the cloth.

Even a small clock is annoying to some people in the sick room. Cover it with a glass bowl. The time can still be seen, but the sound is eliminated.

When cutting shortening in a flour, use two knives; the work will be done much faster than with a spoon or fork. Vanilla is not an appropriate flavor for fried foods such as doughnuts or crullers. Use nutmeg or other spices.

Solving Problem Of the Detour

Despite efforts to put the business of routing motor tourists on an accurate and scientific basis, the National Touring Board of the American Automobile Association finds that the problem of the "Detour," which springs up over night, still continues to be a big source of worry and loss of time to the national cavalcade of motorists.

The plan for the elimination of this trouble, put into effect during the 1925 season by the A. A. A., promises splendid results, according to the National Touring Board, and will be expanded for the 1925 season. It involves the issuance of a detour map and a weekly bulletin covering the entire country. The bulletin itself is to be based on daily telegraphic reports from State Highway Commissions, from county authorities, from A. A. A. clubs, road scouts and individual members.

The detour bulletin will show not only the location of detours on the primary highways but will give the length of the detour and the conditions to be encountered. In some instances the condition and the length of the detour is such that it is more economical to select alternative routes. It is also true that many motorists have discovered for themselves that they cannot always depend on local information, for the reason the communities will, in many instances give a biased report so as not to lose motor tourist traffic, even for a few days.

Hence the importance of a national clearing house for accurate detour information. This information will be available every day to the 2,500 clerks engaged in the business of routing automobiles over the counters of 750 A. A. A. clubs. Coupled with this program for an adequate national detour information service, the A. A. A. is at present urging on State governments and the political subdivisions thereof the importance of keeping detours on main highways in as traversable a shape as possible at all times and also the importance of giving due notice in advance of the intent to close stretches of highways.

"It will mean not only a great service to the motoring public," says the A. A. A. National Touring Board, "it will also mean an enormous economy in car operation and, equally as important, it will help motorists to travel on schedule time."

TON AND HALF OF ICE FOR EACH DAIRY COW

Ithaca, N. Y., Dec. 10.—"Most northern farmers producing milk should figure on storing about one and a half tons of ice for each cow in their herds," W. E. Ayres of the dairy department at Cornell makes this statement, and says the federal department of agriculture is responsible for the figures.

"The amount of ice will vary, however," he says, "because of individual conditions. A farm having a plentiful supply of cold running water will need much less ice than one less fortunately situated. Likewise, the needs for a herd will differ with the amount of milk produced by each animal. Each farmer must consider his own needs and prepare accordingly."

"In packing the ice many factors must be considered. Insulation from the heat of the earth in summer is as necessary as insulation from the heat of the air. If the location permits, a tile drain under the ice house should completely remove all water from underneath the ice-pile."

"At least twelve inches of space should be left for sawdust on all sides of the pile. Twelve-inch ice cut in cakes eighteen by twenty-two inches makes a convenient size to handle. Such a cake will weigh about a hundred and fifty pounds. Reverse the direction in which the cakes are laid in each layer so that they 'break joints.' This checks the circulation of air through the pile. Cut and store ice in freezing weather, pack the cakes closely together, cover the pile with insulation at once, and in the summer the ice will come out with little trouble. "Ice can be cut by hand, but the work is done much more quickly and easily with an ice plow. If several farmers in one neighborhood own ice tools cooperatively, no one will have much money invested and everyone will benefit greatly."

PREFERS SING SING JOB TO PENSION RETIREMENT

Alfred Conyes, who went from Saugerties forty-six years ago and accepted a position as keeper at Sing Sing prison, the date being December 5, 1879, is still on duty. Mr. Conyes was 30 years of age when taking the position. Warden Lewis E. Lawes said to a New York newspaper reporter that Mr. Conyes is one of the best men he has, and expressed the hope he will stay on the job for ten more years. He has been entitled to a pension since 1903, but prefers remaining at Sing Sing as a keeper.

Fighting Against "GermExchange"

Common "Cup Object" of Combined Attack by Health Authorities—Drastic Action Taken by Some States and Municipalities.

Concerted activities by Federal, state and municipal health authorities, working in cooperation with civic health groups, against the common drinking cup have produced within the last year a result against this carrier of contagious diseases that is regarded by sanitarians as the most satisfactory since this source of infection was legislated against in 1910. The reduced figures for illness and the lower death rate are attributed by sanitarians in part to the widespread action against what the United States Public Health Service calls a "germ exchange."

Invoke Radio in Fight.

Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming, of the Public Health Service, inaugurated the campaign against the common cup, with a radio warning against the perils of the common drinking receptacle found in soda fountains, hotels, restaurants, theatres, motor camps, picnic grounds and other public places. This lecture, broadcast from forty-six stations throughout the United States and Canada, told that these vessels were agents for the transmission of tuberculosis, pneumonia, influenza, diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles, whooping cough, cerebrospinal meningitis, infantile paralysis, smallpox, chickenpox, mumps and the common cold.

Following upon this, similar warnings were conveyed through radio by the health officials of New York, New Mexico and Maryland. Official bulletins urging greater vigilance against this disease menace were issued by Delaware, Oklahoma, Tennessee, California, Indiana, Maine and South Carolina.

Some Stringent Laws.

In two states more stringent legislation was sought. In Rhode Island and Indiana bills were introduced to abolish the common glass, entirely from public places. Louisiana wrote new amendments into its sanitary code which provided for sterilized vessels or paper cups. Arizona has added to the statutes which have adopted the railroad code that prohibits all but paper cups on common carriers.

Various towns throughout the country wrote into their municipal regulations new provisions for thorough sterilization in soda fountains and like places. These include Durham, Goldsboro, Elizabethtown and Wilmington, North Carolina; Savannah, Ga., and Asbury Park, Summit and Madison, New Jersey.

In Dayton, Ohio, and New Britain, Connecticut, the city health officers introduced a system of ratings to establish the sanitary conditions prevailing in soda fountains.

Vigorous local crusades, under the leadership of city health officers, were instituted in many cities.

Planning New Fight.

The health authorities were assisted by Dr. Henry F. Vaughan, former president of the American Health Association; the Association of American Teachers of Diseases of Children; the Parent-Teacher Associations; by insurance companies and by managers of motor camps and state and county fairs.

With the favorable results of these combined activities showing in the illness and death tables the sanitarians and health officials of the country, together with women's organizations and public and semi-public health organizations are planning for another grouping of strength and vigilance against the common drinking cup for the new year.

15,528 Killed by Autos in Year

Washington, Dec. 10.—The Department of Commerce announced that the returns show that during the year 1924, 15,528 deaths resulting from accidents caused by automobiles and other motor vehicles (excluding motorcycles unless in collision with automobiles) occurred within the death registration area of the United States (exclusive of Hawaii), which area contains 88.4 per cent of the total population. This number represents a death rate of 15.7 per 100,000 population as against 14.9 in 1923, 12.5 in 1922, 11.5 in 1921 and 10.4 in 1920.

In the 34 states for which data for 1920 are available, the actual number of these deaths increased from 8,828 in that year to 13,468 in 1923 and 14,437 in 1924, the corresponding rates for these three years being 10.3, 15.1 and 16.

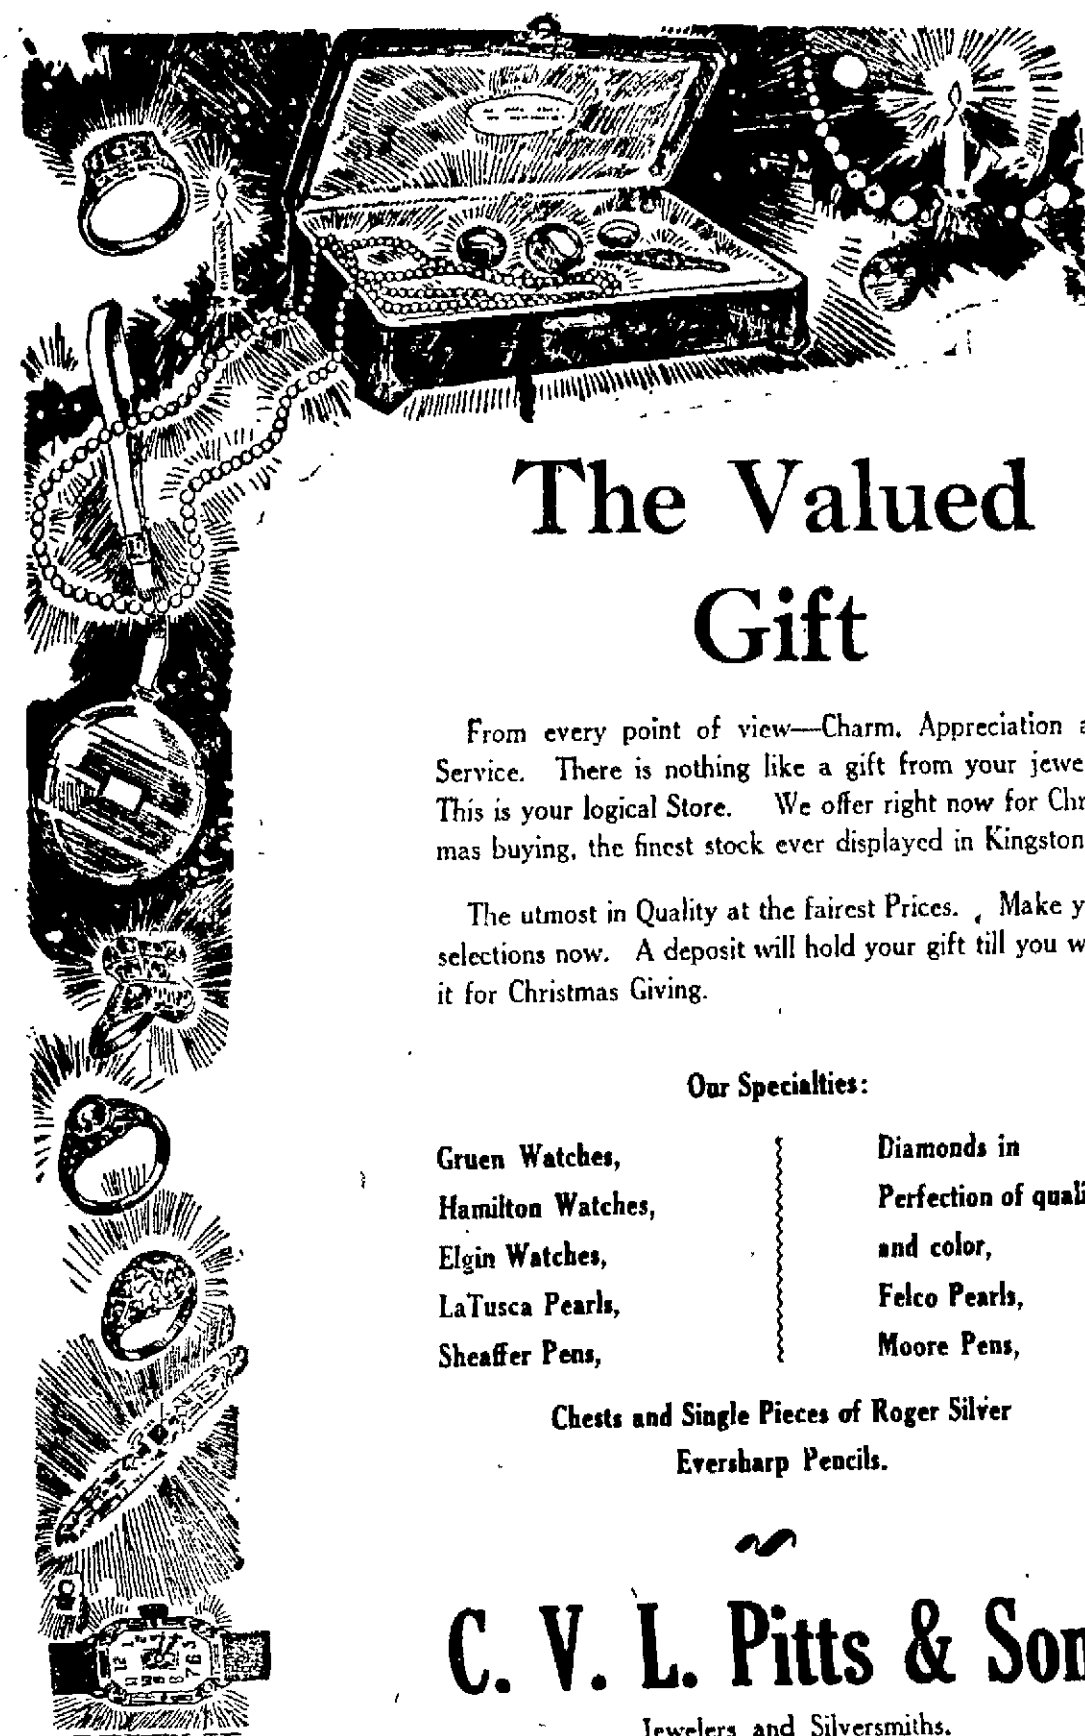

The Bureau of the Census assigns the cause of death from collisions between two vehicles to the heavier vehicle; therefore these totals do not include collisions between automobiles and electric cars and railroad trains.

The Interstate Commerce Commission reports 1,688 deaths resulting from collisions between automobiles and railroad trains. Of this total, 1,532 occurred in registration states. However, in estimating the automobile fatalities this number should not be added to the 1924 state figures for in all probability many reported to the Interstate Commerce Commission as collisions were reported to the Bureau of the Census as automobile accidents.

THE WHY, WHEN AND WHERE OF FASHIONS

The Vogue for Velvet.

Velvet, the soft, lustrous fabric of kings—has been the setting for many an ancient scene. It has clothed princesses and queens, and the masculine element of the court, as well, and is now serving with equal grace a winter mode that looks upon luxurious effects with favor.

A distinguished writer of Fashion History has pointed out one fact which changes somewhat the complexion of the picture, as one thinks back into the past, and imagines the gorgeously gowned personages. How rich the massed effect of the court of King Henry the Sixth of England, for instance—velvets and silks of marvellous colors, with an occasional pall—the beautiful gold or crimson wool known also as the bandekin. The great difference between such a gathering and one of similar richness today—lies in the fact that today, one is impressed with the newness, the almost tiny newness, of the modern costumes—whereas the ancient garments were often-times none too fresh or new. Those venerables were more extravagant in the quality than in the number of their clothes—and so one should think of them as old, and beautifully, faded velvets, sun-licked silks and rain-improved cloths—a softening of the effect, a general enrichment that is worthy of note.

At this time, velvet was used not only for gowns, but also for bedclothes in the place of blankets—it was made in all kinds of beautiful designs, raised over a cloth of silver or silk—and often double-piled equally as wondrous as the velvets of modern time.

(Fairchild Fashion Service.)

Chic Coat for Girls; Brown Velours Cloth

This slim and girlish coat of tobacco-brown velours cloth has a broad panel of beaver fur across the front, and deep collar and cuffs of beaver. There is a slight suggestion of a waist-line and a flare.

Chinese Art Is Shown in Season's Fashions

Chinese art is a source of inspiration from which are drawn many of the costume designs now in vogue. The mandarin coat has long been worn as an incidental wrap or a negligee. But the popularity of Chinese motifs, lines and treatment, with variations adapted to modern dress, is at its height in this season's fashions. In a handsome gown suitable for formal dinners or the opera, Chinese embroidery in bright colored medallion groups completely covers the surface of black satin chiffon. The gown is arranged with such skill that the modern silhouette in the extreme is achieved. Its lines follow the figure in a slight curve, with a flare in a couple of informal plaits at each side. These plaits drop the hem line three or four inches lower than the front and back. The neck is cut round at the back with a deep V in front, outlined with a band of Chinese needlework.

The decorative value of the Chinese design is illustrated in a diverting manner in an elaborate version of the "Jumper" frock. The skirt, made of two circular flounces of black satin and georgette, swirls beneath a straight, slip-on "Jumper" round and black at the neck, and drawn together with a narrow, black velvet tie. Across the front of the "Jumper" enormous Chinese birds in flight are embroidered in white, black and silver floss. This is the only trimming on an uncommonly artistic little frock.

MRS. YOUNG AT LUNCHEON FOR MRS. COOLIDGE

Five New York farmers were among the guests at the cooperative luncheon given in honor of President Coolidge at the Hotel Sherman in Chicago on Monday. The lunch followed the address by the president to the delegates to the annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

The New Yorkers were Peter G. Ten Eyck of Albany, president of the New York State Farm Bureau Federation; E. V. Underwood of Ithaca, secretary; Enos Lee of Yorktown Heights, member of the executive committee of the American Farm Bureau Federation; S. L. Strivings of Castle, master of the New York State Grange; and H. C. McKenzie of Walton, a former director of the American Farm Bureau. Officers and directors of the American Farm Bureau Federation and presidents and secretaries of the state federations gave the luncheon in the president's honor.

Everything served was furnished by farmers' cooperative marketing associations. These foods included apples, milk, oranges, grape fruit, butter, eggs, ham, sweet potatoes, lettuce, celery, tomatoes, string beans, olives, cranberries, maple syrup, turkey, cheese, walnuts, raisins and prunes. The organizations contributing the foods are located in all parts of the country, from Vermont to California.

At the same time Mrs. O. E. Bradgate, wife of the president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, was hostess at a luncheon for Mrs. Coolidge, Mrs. Ruby Green Smith of Ithaca and Mrs. Edward Young of Milton, Ulster county, were guests.

That Green Is Unusually Popular By Night as Well as Day and Smart Women Have a Well-Tailored Air.

It is amazing the number of green dresses one sees everywhere these nights, and the number of green hats which are worn by women who defy the present day rule of matching their hat to the rest of the costume.

Green was, of course, emphasized in all reports of the Paris openings, but even so, it is rather unusual to see the edict of Paris so faithfully carried out, particularly with a color against which there is some prejudice, and a color which in spite of its endless variety is not always flattering.

The practice of having one's hats match one's costume is not faithfully followed in Rome. Here women on show a marked preference for a bright hat to give color to an otherwise neutral costume, there being much gray worn here. Green hats have the first call, then shades of fuchsia, purples and rose.

The short jacketed double-breasted suit is also a great favorite here, its only rival being the double-breasted coat, both on severely tailored lines, and in woolsens which are themselves of great interest, being in all-over design of slightly varied tones.

One of the Numerous Versions of Roboux's High Crowned Hats.

Judging from the number of smart women one sees wearing it, jersey perhaps leads, but there are other clothes of the covert type, which are even smarter, these often being in bottle green tones, or in browns. Taken by and large brown tones seem to be the general favorite in all street and travel attire, from broad striped and plaided topcoats, usually fur collared, to blonde crepe dresses which were finely pleated or have interesting inlays of self material or well-fitted yokes. With these, brown footwear is the inevitable rule.

Include GOOD LUCK in

Diet for the School Child

Nourishment afforded by this tasteful spread keeps them healthy and strong

SCHOOL authorities recommend margarine in menus for children.

Bulletin 57 from the University of Iowa Extension Division says this to mothers, "Fat is essential to growing children"; and, afterwards, when discussing spreads says, "Substitutes made from animal fats may be used."

This statement exactly describes JELKE GOOD LUCK Margarine. It is a delicate blend of three choice fats—full-cream milk, wholesome beef fat and nourishing pork fat. These three combine in a delicious spread that has all the food values, including vitamins, that are insisted upon by the University.

Serve JELKE GOOD LUCK to children as a spread for bread at the dining table. They simply love the flavor—think it's the finest spread ever—and eat it gleefully. GOOD LUCK pleases childish appetites and at the same time repairs inroads made on energy by constant activity, supplying vim and vitality, keeping children well and strong.

If you have not been using GOOD LUCK Margarine, make inquiries about it among your neighbors. You will be surprised at the number who are using it, many of them for years; and will want to try it yourself. Your dealer sells GOOD LUCK and can supply you at a price that will save you money to use it. Ask him about it—Today.

In the JUNGLE

With Cheerups and the Quixies
by Grace Bliss Stewart

MR. HOOPOE'S HORN

"THIS cry I make would be all right for some folks, I suppose. Lots of little birds would be proud of it, but I'm not satisfied. It isn't loud enough to suit me," mumbled and grumbled a Hoopoe to himself, as he sat one fine day in the shade of a rock out on the Great Desert.

He looked so nearly like the sand as he crouched there that he was scarcely visible. His body of grayish brown and his black wings and tail, barred with white, were a perfect protection.

"There's Mr. Hawk sailing around and around up in the sky. He's looking for me, I guess," thought the Hoopoe, "but he can't find me, even with his sharp eyes. I'll just flatten out my body on the sand and keep perfectly still. He'll go away in a minute without his dinner. Oh, I'm quite safe, but safety doesn't come first with me. No, sir, I want to make a noise. Perhaps if I tried and tried, I might be able to get out a decent whoop, but it isn't wise here with that pesky hawk about. I believe I'll go into the Jungle where it's cool and quiet and practice a bit."

"I'm Mr. Hoopoe From the Great Desert," Replied the Bird.

Off flew the dissatisfied Hoopoe into the Jungle. On and on between the great trees with their big dewy leaves, in and out of the tangled Jungle Vines, across the Yellow River and through the Winding Way he went, looking for a good place to stop and begin his singing lesson.

"Here's the very spot," cried he. "It's all cleared out and there's nobody around. Oh, excuse me, sir; I thought I was alone. I hope I'm not intruding," as he caught sight of a tiny fairy dressed all in green.

"Intruding? Dear me, dear me, I should say not," chuckled the little fellow, smiling from ear to ear. "I'm Cheerups, and I just love visitors. Why, I stay at home almost all the time so as not to miss anyone. May I ask your name, sir?"

"I'm Mr. Hoopoe from the Great Desert," replied the bird, puffing out his feathers. "You'll find me in 'Who's Who Among the Hoopoes' any time you care to look, sir. I was just trying to find a quiet place for a little vocal practice. You see, I'm not satisfied with my voice. You'll agree that the quality is splendid when you hear me, but I want more volume. Will it disturb you if I begin right away?"

"Begin by all means, Mr. Hoopoe; nothing could please me better. Besides, I might be able to help you," cried Cheerups eagerly. "I am quite a judge of music. Why, I used to give lessons to the Cricket children and Mr. Screech Owl, and once I trained a chorus of bees. Buzzy Bumblebee had a wonderful bass."

With such encouragement, Mr. Hoopoe began to sing, but it was a poor attempt. Cheerups knew right away that it wouldn't do. Such a small, squeaky sound wasn't impressive at all. No, indeed, it wouldn't do.

"Your method of singing is all wrong if it's volume you want, Mr. Hoopoe," said Cheerups. "Now just puff out the sides of your neck, then hammer your beak three times on the ground, and you'll make us big a sound as anyone could wish. Every time you strike the ground with your beak some of the air in your throat will escape, and that will make the noise."

Three times on the ground, did you say? asked Mr. Hoopoe, puffing out his neck and looking about to burst. Then three times he rapped the ground with his beak, and out on the morning air rang three loud clear calls.

"Hoo-hoo hoo, hoo-hoo hoo," screamed that delighted bird. "Mr. Hoopoe, that's fine," he gasped, when he could get his breath. "It was hard work, but it was worth it; and I'll tell everybody in the Jungle who wants singing lessons to come to you. You are a wonderful teacher, Mr. Hoopoe. How glad I am that I dropped in."

Then "hoo-hoo hoo" came fainter and fainter the sound through the Jungle, as happy Mr. Hoopoe hopped away, blowing his own horn.

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

EYELASHES AND WISHES

ONE way to "get your wish" is to place an eyelash—or "eyewinker"—as it is sometimes called—on the back of your hand and blow it off. If it flies off at the first puff you give it you will get your wish. Another is to put an eyelash down your back, wishing as you do so; and still another is to place the eyelash on your finger and, as you wish, carry the finger three times around your head and then throw the "winker" over your shoulder. Some people, instead of trying to blow the eyelash off the back of the hand, try to knock it off by striking the hand with the other. This superstition is common in various sections of the country.

Its origin is to be looked for in the far days of the lost gods and in that primitive idea which considered the hair as a vital and integral part of the possessor so that it was often offered in sacrifice, sometimes even as a substitute for the sacrifice of the man himself. The eyelash is a hair and it comes from the eye; and the eye was one of the symbols of Osiris, the great god of the Egyptians. Therefore the eyelash is offered as a sacrifice to Osiris that he may be propitious to the wish of the suppliant.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name, its history, meaning, whence it was derived, and much more, your lucky day, lucky jewel.

ADELINE

IT is difficult to imagine nobility in connection with a serpent, yet "noble snake" is the significance given the charming name of Adeline. It is one of the many Teutonic appellatives arising from the custom of honoring and glorifying the lowest of God's creatures, by using it as a suffix to proper names.

Adeline grows out of the old German term Ado and under the serpent the feudal princesses of each little Frankish duchy seem to have favored some variation of the name. It appeared finally in Lombardy as Alix and later throughout France as Alix England received it when Henry I married Alix La Belle and promptly anglicized it, so that it occurred in a variety of forms, including Adeline, Adelaide, Adeltra and Adela.

Meanwhile in Germany, the original form Adelaide remained in vogue. Under modern influence, it was contracted to Adeline, despite the prejudice to forms already evolved in France and England. It's sound fitted it well to poetry and romance and many were the ballads of early times which possessed a beautiful heroine so called.

Jasper is Adeline's talismanic stone. Curiously enough this jewel will protect her from her namesake which is not sufficiently noble to forbear an attack upon her. Not only from envious creatures is Jasper a defense, Saturday is Adeline's lucky day and her lucky number.

Dr. Hall Talks To K. H. S. Pupils

Dr. Winfield Scott Hall, head of the Social Hygiene Department of the Presbyterian Church of the United States, who was in Kingston Wednesday, gave a brief talk to the High School students at the morning assembly.

Dr. Hall traced the existence of man from his earliest state up until his present development. Man first existed as a savage, the lowest condition of human beings. From there he went into the age of barbarism, a slightly more civilized race. Man's third and final step was into the age of chivalry when every knight was loyal to his home, king and country. Man's present state is a development of the chivalry age and the people of today should practice these same ideals in a modern manner.

The students were greatly pleased with Dr. Hall's talk, being unusually impressed by his interesting and vivid manner of address.

Dr. Hall also spoke before a group of Hi-Y members in the evening at the Y. M. C. A., his topic being "The Making of an Athlete."

The speaker related the requirements one must measure up to in order to develop to an efficient athlete and later a success in life. He told of the constant temptations which the young man must keep clear of in early life if he prefers to develop into a "real man" rather than a "molly-coddle." This informal and intimate talk was gratefully received by the Hi-Y boys.

Would Conscript Men and Material

Washington, Dec. 10.—As a blow to war time profiteers, Senator King, Democrat of Utah, today sponsored a resolution which would place the Senate on record as favoring the conscription of "industrial resources" along with man power in the next war.

The resolution declared "illegitimate private profits" were derived in past wars from dealings between private industry and the government, causing high prices and affording an incentive to business to promote war. The resolution added: Whereas in time of war the resources of all should be mobilized on equal and just terms for the prosecution of the war. The Senate approves in principle of the proposition that in event of war it shall be the policy of the government to draft not only its manpower but its material and industrial resources, in order to prevent profiteering and the amassing of private fortunes.

French Literary Men Dispute Over Unicorn

Was there ever such an animal as the unicorn? Its existence has been testified to by no less authoritative writers than Aristotle and Pliny, and even in 1877 the members of the French academy, including the distinguished names of Renan and Victor Hugo, were so doubtful on the subject that in their dictionary they gave the ambiguous definition that, according to the most general opinion, the unicorn never existed. But the present members of the academy, still at work on the new edition of the famous dictionary, have tried to settle the question for once and all. The unicorn, say the immortals, is a fabulous animal of antiquity.

The French press refuses to accept the dictum as final. Why, queries Andre Billy, a well-known writer, should the members of the academy, counting not a single naturalist in their ranks, be allowed to settle the question? And, in the century of radiance and the wireless, why should we deny the testimony of Pliny and Aristotle on the existence of a beast remarkable only in that it had a horn on its forehead?—Paris Letter.

Human Remains Not Unknown to History

The first case of a human remnant reported in a scientific journal was that of Robert Gill, a cobbler of Dorchester, whose death was reported in the British Annual Register under date of October 1, 1797.

In ancient times and in the Middle Ages men who showed the red were apparently very far from rare, but modern science would be prone to dismiss such tales were they not supported by evidence of more recent times. Roger Gill died after suffering "great tortures" due to the loss of his orange shawl.

Gill usually began his second shaving a quarter of eight on Monday morning, after dinner, when every second came up commensally sweeter and sweeter to the taste. The shaving continued about an hour or more, and sometimes would leave him for a little while, "in which case he would be sick of his cobbler." Many other and later instances might be cited of men who have been "brother to the ox" in the possession of this faculty.—Chicago Journal.

Says Retirement Law Is Inadequate

Lower Retirement Age and Higher Annuities for Federal Employees Asked by Secretary of Labor Davis.

Washington, Dec. 10.—James J. Davis, the secretary of Labor, in recommendations submitted to congress at the opening of this session, calls attention to the necessity for the passage of a more liberal retirement law for civil federal employees. "The present law," states the secretary, "which allows a maximum of only $60 per month to those who reach the age of 70 years and have served 30 years in service, it is agreed by everyone, is entirely inadequate. The amount is not sufficient to pay for the bare necessities of life for a man and his wife, even though he have no other dependents."

"The salaries paid to government workers are seldom sufficient to permit them to put anything away for the proverbial 'rainy day,' and when they have given the best years of their life to the government it is unfair to cast them out on such a pittance. The government has not yet been called upon to contribute a nickel to the retirement fund, and the amount subtracted from the wages of the employees monthly will be sufficient to pay annuities for years to come. I believe that the amended bill for retirement that failed to pass the last session of congress should be reintroduced and enacted, with the provision for voluntary retirement after 30 years of service for those who have reached the age of 60 years and should provide for an annuity of $100 a month."

Famous Orchestra Here Monday

After an absence of a number of years the McEnelly Orchestra will make its appearance again at the armory on Monday evening, December 14.

Kingston dance lovers turned out en masse when the popular orchestra appeared here some years ago and their return under the auspices of the local batteries is expected to meet with as great enthusiasm by those who heard them before and by those who were not dancing at that time.

The McEnelly Orchestra was very popular some years but the height of their fame has not seemed to have been reached as every year adds new laurels. Widely known as a popular dance orchestra of unusual individuality, this orchestra broadcasts over W. B. Z. from the Butterfield Ball room, Springfield, Mass. The orchestra is also exclusive Victor recording artists.

One of the features of the McEnelly Orchestra is said to be, the fact that it can always be depended upon to have the latest numbers and special arrangements of the most popular dance selections.

DARROW MEMORIAL AT SCHOOL NO. 8.

At the regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of School No. 8, held at the school on Tuesday afternoon, it was decided to create what will be known as the "H. D. Out of this fund prizes of one dollar will be given twice a year to the pupil in each grade in the school having the highest standing in his or her grade. During the meeting arrangements were made for the Christmas festivities and for the special Christmas cheer to be given to certain shut-ins to whom the Association will play Santa Claus.

If Much On Your Feet

If YOU find it necessary to Stand or Walk much, you will especially appreciate this

Cantilever Shoe

For it means easy Comfort when Standing, and makes Walking a pleasant exercise instead of a trial.

One of the reasons for this is in the Flexible Shank (the sole just in front of the heel).

Instead of containing the usual concealed slug of metal, this is made perfectly yielding to conform with the natural motion of the foot arch and muscles in walking.

The flexible arch means foot freedom, altho giving what support is needed.

When Standing, it gives an easy effect, very soothing and restful, without the usual tiring pressure.

Other features, too, and proper Personal Fitting, give you comfort unknown heretofore. Try and see.

The Cantilever models have style and smartness. Pumps in men, two and three-strap patterns, and utility models in conventional design.

Prices, $5.00 to $12.00, are low for the long wear and delightful comfort.

Captain Max Carey Wants Winter Rest

Max Carey, captain of the world's champion Pittsburgh Pirates, says he believes that acceptance of responsible positions by baseball players during the winter months uses up much of their energy and affects their playing during the summer months.

For that reason Carey refused offers to enter motion pictures or vaudeville, sell real estate, or automobiles, and deliver lectures. He says he will rest and prepare himself for the 1924 season.

Berlenbach Is a Slight Favorite

In the Eyes of the Merry Populace Due to His Big Improvement Late in the Season and His Recent Illness to Delaney.

New York, Dec. 10.—What, asks the inquiring professor, happens when an irresistible force meets an immovable body, and since time immemorial the class in elementary physics has conundrum over this ponderous problem and, absolutely baffled and confounded, has shaken its negative head. It has long been the mode to pass this one up along with the overall mystery in connection with Mrs. Murphy's chowder.

Yet the answer will be presented at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night by Paul Berlenbach, world's light heavyweight champion, and Jack Delaney, his challenger, and if the latter's right hand doesn't constitute an irresistible force then Paul Berlenbach's chin was badly fooled on the occasion of their last meeting. And if Berlenbach's recently acquired ability to laugh off a punch is not the personal application of the immovable body then Jimmy Slattery, young Stribling, Mike McGigue and others must have been hitting him with the wrong end of an empty sleeve.

The thing has been billed as a fifteen round bout to an official decision but probably will end with one or the other of the principals resting lightly on his shoulder blades waiting to see whether the referee can count as high as eleven. It didn't get beyond the third round the last time. Delaney shooting a terrific right to Paul's jaw for a one punch knockout.

But the general idea today is that Berlenbach is a much improved fighter and the hot sports of this mercurial town are very exercised. They are buying ring side seats at $20 a copy and the good Mr. Rickard alleges that the proposition will play to a capacity house of 25,000.

Most of the merry populace seem to be stringing along with Berlenbach's chances, this idea being influenced alike by the fact that Paul no longer is any man's sap and that Delaney only recently recovered from a series of illnesses. But, if they took the trouble to reckon the thing on a style for style basis, they would forget Berlenbach hurriedly and remember Delaney with all due haste.

Unless the latter is far from himself, he figures to have the edge on the champion if only because Berlenbach must come to him to do any business and Delaney's style is such that he can ask nothing better. He is a counter hitter with the cleanest right hand puncher in the profession.

It would then be a question of which man would beat the other to the punch and the wise money should ride with Delaney as a matter of mere mathematics.

Contracts are soon to be let by the University of Chicago for a field house to accommodate indoor sports. It will seat comfortably 9,000 spectators.

Addition of Notre Dame and Nebraska Suggested

Many believe the western conference would be greatly strengthened if Indiana and Purdue, two unimportant members of the organization, were dropped and Notre Dame and Nebraska substituted.

It has been years since Purdue and Indiana have amounted to much in a football way. No attempt is made to belittle these two schools. They merely are unfortunate from an athletic standpoint. Any person would labor under the same impression after watching the athletic directors and football coaches of the larger universities making up attractive schedules without any regard whatsoever for the smaller schools.

If the Big Ten officials feel this way about it, one cannot blame a sports writer, viewing their actions from the side lines, from feeling that the conference could be made the greater in the college world if two such schools as Notre Dame and Nebraska were added to it.

They would complete a "Big Ten" that would be big in every way. The Irish and Cornhuskers are nationally known for their football ability. With them in the conference, gridiron honors would not be hogged year after year by Michigan, Illinois and Chicago.

Illinois Is Confident

Here is a new photograph of Ted Haines, captain and forward of the basketball team at the University of Illinois. Haines is confident that his team is going to end the season with a fine record.

Morgan Hill, Dec. 10.—Most of the Home Bureau members of this section attended the nutrition lecture given in West Hurley last week.

Kingston Plays At Monticello

The Kingston quintet of the Tri-County League goes to Monticello this evening to meet the Orioles.

The next home game will be staged at the armory on Wednesday, December 16. The team is looking for much better support here in the remaining games. Manager Spalt is selling season tickets which is expected to bring in enough revenue to finance the team for the balance of the schedule.

BILL KILLEFER WILL ASSIST ROGER HORNSBY

New York, Dec. 10.—Bill Killefer, a National Leaguer these dozen years, returned to that organization today after a brief estrangement.

He announced personally that he had signed a contract with the St. Louis Cardinals as coach and general assistant to Manager Roger Hornsby, thus putting the Cardinals in the way of something they hitherto have lacked—adequate pitching.

Good Bouts at Elks' Smoke

An opponent is being selected for young Hart, the East Kingston boxer, for the Elks' smoker Monday evening, December 14. Hart's work in recent bouts has been bang up and he has become a great favorite among local enthusiasts of the many art.

Another popular local boxer, Fleher, who also has shown much class at recent affairs, Fisher will be given a real test in the main affair of this card when he meets Hub. Coffey.

There will also be a number of other bouts besides its usual acts and vaudeville.

The Higher Mathematics

By H. IRVING KING

(Copyright)

HORACE G. KILTON was a mathematician, wore glasses and was rather lean and lanky. Mathematicians are apt to get that way, somehow. He was young, too—only twenty-eight—so there was time for improvement. Mabel Streeter was younger yet—just twenty—and you couldn't have improved on her if you had tried. She was about perfect, just as she was—only she was no mathematician. She took the multiplication table on faith; though that faith was sorely tried when she attempted to put the said table into practical use.

But then there was no especial reason why Mabel should toy with the multiplication table any more than with the fourth dimension, or the doctrine of least squares. By concentrating her mind upon it she could keep a fairly accurate count at bridge—and that was sufficient. Until she met Horace; then she keenly felt her deficiencies and longed for logarithms. Horace was instructor in the academy on the hill and Mabel was the belle of the town. It was strange how these two so opposite people inclined to each other. Mabel, of course, was active in all the "uplift" work of the community and was made treasurer of all the societies she joined—her accounts were so accurately kept!

The fact was that if left to her own devices the various societies of which Mabel was treasurer would never have been able to find out whether they were in a plutocratic or a "busted" condition. But Horace cast his astigmatic gaze over the accounts, made a few mental lightning calculations, and had them all "ship shape and Bristol fashion" in something rather less than three shakes of a lamb's tail.

Now Mabel's father, Sam Streeter, was a man of wealth and varied financial interests; and looked down upon the intimacy between his daughter and the poorly paid teacher from the academy. "You'll have to cut out that four-eyed calculating machine," said the fond parent to his daughter. "I hear he only gets twelve hundred dollars a year and is never likely to get a raise."

"Oh pa, how cruel you are!" replied Mabel. "Horace is in his profession because he loves it."

"Don't let me see him hanging about here any more," snapped Mr. Streeter.

But Horace hung around as usual. Mabel was a good girl, but obstinate. Old Streeter glared at the mathematician whenever they met and treated him very rudely indeed—the more so that the rich man was just now in a highly irritable state consequent upon his attempt to make out his income-tax returns himself instead of hiring a lawyer to do it—for Streeter was tight-fisted and lost no chance to save money.

"Oh father," cried Mabel when, in a moment of weakness, her father had confided to her the cause of his irritability, "why don't you get Horace to help you? He is simply wonderful. Why, he even understands the Goldstein theory."

"Bosh!" remarked Streeter, and hung out of the house.

When he came home that evening there was Horace, as usual, beaming benignly through his glasses at Mabel. "Th settle that young man's hat here and now," thought Streeter and said: "Mr. Kilton, please step into the library. No, Mabel—you stay right where you are." When the two men were alone together Streeter glared at the mathematician and said pompously: "I wish to speak plainly to you concerning your attentions to my daughter. My conduct toward you has been such that one would have supposed—"

"Oh, that's all right," broke in Horace cheerfully. "Mabel told me what was the matter. You are worried over your income-tax returns. Perfectly simple. I assure you, sir. All that is required, even in the most complicated cases, is the application of the mere rudiments of mathematics. I have just made out my own returns and happen to have them with me. I was intending to mail them on my way home." He drew an envelope from his pocket and in the envelope extracted the document.

"You will observe, sir," went on Horace spreading the filled-up forms on the table, "that—and he went into a careful and scientific explanation. Streeter did not understand the explanation; but he did understand that the supposedly poor mathematician was a wealthy man who had inherited large properties.

"Quite so, quite so," said he when Horace had run down. "As I was saying about you and Mabel, why, if she is satisfied, and you want her—why take her. As to those infernal tax returns of mine—here—just cast your eyes over them."

In half an hour by the clock Horace had Streeter's income tax all straightened out and was holding hands with Mabel on the parlor sofa.

A Bad Press

Edward W. Browning the million aire realtor, was held up the other day by a New York reporter who wanted to question him about a new phase in his ill-omened adoption of Mary Spas.

But Mr. Browning shook the reporter off dexterously.

"Young man, I'll tell you a story," he said. "A realtor was lunching one day when another realtor slapped him on the back and said:

"Hello, old fellow! How are you feeling?"

"Rotten," said the first realtor. "All run down."

"Ah, been working too hard, eh?"

"No. Papers been talking too much about me."

And Mr. Browning nodded significantly and stepped into his limousine.

Wasting Time

"Why, Billy," she demanded, "how is it that you've come home so early—are you ill?"

"No, I have quit," said the little fellow.

"You've quit?" exclaimed his astonished mother. "You go right back this minute."

"What's the use of going back?" sobbed Billy. "They had a fire drill and I don't want to be a fireman—I'm a screen star."—Los Angeles Times.

OPEN RAILROAD
IN KHYBER PASS

Famous Trade Artery of India Now Echoes to Locomotive Whistle.

Washington.—The Khyber pass, one of the world's famous trade arteries, now echoes to the whistle of the locomotive. According to dispatches from India, a new section of railway on the high road to Afghanistan has been formally opened.

"Located as it is, in the northwest corner of India and at the head of the 'Broad Road' or 'Main Street' of Kipling's India and his youthful disciple 'Kim,' Khyber pass is the key to the back door of India," says a bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society. "It is one of the few breaks in that enclosing wall of mountains and deserts which has been the main ally of the British in protecting their hard-won domains from the incursions of the independent and lawless tribes of the north and the west."

"The seeker of romance, of contrasts, and of danger might well end his journey here. As one writer says: 'There is perhaps no other mountain passway in the world so historic as this, so filled with the ghosts of armies, so thoroughly soaked with romance and battle and blood.' Many centuries before the roar of the motor-truck, its canyon-like walls reverberated to the shouts of Alexander and his Greeks. It has known in turn the exultant cries of the Moguls, the Afghans and the pioneer English. For more than thirty centuries Khyber pass has been a great flood gate, through which, in turn, men have poured in search of conquest, adventure and trade."

Through Treacherous Section. "Beginning at Fort Jamrud, an outpost surrounded by tents and adobe houses, a little more than ten miles from Peshawar, the new railroad parallels the roads of the pass as it winds and twists its way in a north-westerly direction to All Masjid, located in a cuplike depression at the highest point in the pass. This is the limit of the line. Here the highway begins its descent, through the narrowest and most treacherous section of the pass to Landi Kotal, the last Indian town. Six miles farther on is the Afghan border. Throughout its length the twisting defile is a gloomy gorge, into some parts of which the direct rays of the sun never penetrate. High precipices, treeless and desolate, but very impressive in their vivid colorings and dense shadows, make easier to comprehend the difficulties in protecting the route."

"Although the entire pass is in British territory, safe conduct is offered on only two days in the week. At dawn Tuesdays and Fridays merchants and their caravans assemble at each end of the pass and there is a great hurry and scramble to get through before sunset. On these two days troops occupy the hilltop block houses and are stationed along the road to protect the caravans from snipers and highwaymen. By herding all the traffic into two weekly passages, too, there is the added safety of numbers. At

"What arrangements will be made to increase this margin of safety, now that the railroad covers half of the distance through the pass, has not been stated. The government of Afghanistan has maintained its 'Absolutely Forbidden to Cross This Border Into Afghan Territory' sign for many decades, and the railroad will increase the number of 'one-foot' visitors to Afghanistan (i. e. tourists who step over the border so they can have something out of the ordinary to tell the folks back home). What effect it will have in bringing about a change in the 'splendid isolation' of the Afghans remains to be seen."

"Some of the wild land beyond the pass in Afghanistan is exceedingly beautiful, resembling, according to the few Europeans who have seen it, the famous Vale of Kashmir, the land of Lalla Rookh. Areas around the headwaters of the Kabul river, the most important river in the kingdom, have not been explored by Europeans since the days when Alexander made his way to India."

"More interesting than the scenery of the pass are the Afridis, the untamed tribesmen who live in the vicinity of the passes between their country and India. They are powerful, independent, treacherous and ferocious. Hiding in the seams of the hills they once picked off with their trusty muskets travelers on the roads below. Many punitive expeditions were sent against them, expeditions were which were as unfruitful as the Moroccan campaigns against the Rif. A Thief to Catch a Thief."

"Acting on the principle that a thief can catch a thief, however, the British have been more successful. The daring plan was conceived of training and arming the wild tribesmen of the pass into a protective body. The 'Khyber Rifles,' composed entirely of Afridi tribesmen under English officers, has become a famous and successful British colonial military organization. Tall, stalwart men, who do not seem to know the meaning of fear, they have figured in much of the literature concerning the safeguarding of the northwest frontier of India."

Says Lord Grey Prevented Peace

Lord Grey's Answer to Statements in Memoirs of Sir Edward Grey, (Charging Grey With Frustrating Colonel House's Peace Efforts With Kaiser).

Berlin, Dec. 10.—A letter appealing to the German Kaiser to avert the possibility of war written by Colonel Edward M. House from London July 1, 1914, was made public today for the first time by Gottlieb Von Jagow, minister of foreign affairs for Germany at the outbreak of the world war.

Von Jagow published the letter in reply to statements in the recently published memoirs of Sir Edward Grey, British foreign minister when the war broke out. Sir Edward Grey in his memoirs declared that Colonel House said after coming to London from Berlin that he had gathered the impression that "Germany was filled with clang of armor and preparation for war."

Colonel House was in London at the time as the personal emissary of President Wilson, who was then strenuously endeavoring to dispel the war clouds threatening the tranquility of the continent.

Von Jagow, commenting on the letter, charged Lord Grey with deliberately frustrating Colonel House's peace efforts by preventing him from returning to Germany to resume his conferences with the Kaiser.

Colonel House's letter as given out today by Von Jagow said: "With the approval and consent of the president, I came to Europe for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not it was possible to bring about a better understanding among the great powers so that there might be a continuation of peace and later, a beneficial economic readjustment in which a decrease in armaments would be insured. "Because of the commanding position Your Majesty occupies and because of your well known desire to maintain peace I came directly to Berlin. I can never forget your gracious acceptance of the general purposes of my mission. I received every reasonable assurance of Your Majesty's cordial approval of the president's purpose and I left Germany happy in the belief that Your Majesty's great influence would be thrown on behalf of peace and the broadening of international commerce."

Scores Dry Law For Hypocrisy

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 10.—Prohibition legislation and enforcement were characterized as "an international joke" by Dr. Clarence Cook Little, president of the University of Michigan, in an address here today.

Prohibition, he asserted, is a failure and directly responsible for a growing disrespect of law in general. "Is it not time to ask for a business-like handling of this whole situation so we may bring up youth in an atmosphere more nearly freed from hypocrisy?" Dr. Little asked.

Roodney Case Goes to Jury

Action To Recover $50,000 For The Death of Jacob Solomon Roodney Is Sent to Jury—Defendant's Claim Accident Was Unavoidable.

The action to recover $50,000 for the death of Jacob Solomon Roodney, who was killed last June when a Larabee truck of Albert Kaplan and Louis Kline of this city upon which Roodney was a passenger turned over west of Andes, was concluded in Supreme court this morning and sent to the jury at 11:30 o'clock. Roodney, a graduate of Kingston High School and a student at the Rochester University, was employed at Fleischmanns where he was engaged for the summer. On the evening of June 28 Kaplan and Kline had gone to Fleischmanns with a load of grapes. The pipe had been placed and then a party of seven young men, including Roodney, another young man and two girls had started for The Hook to attend a dance.

It had been raining and the roads were wet. When west of Andes the truck slipped on the pavement and turned over several times. Roodney was killed and also one of the young women. An action in Delaware county resulted in a verdict for $15,000 at that time for the death of the girl.

Roodney had been invited to go to the dance by Kaplan and Kline and for some distance had ridden in the cab with Kline, who was driving, and Kaplan. Later he went to the rear of the truck and sat on the bottom of the truck with the girls and a companion while one of the young men took his seat in the cab. The truck was not operating as it should and a top was made at a later time. It was learned a companion and was in a cab was added and the trip to The Hook was resumed.

The evidence in the case was that the truck was traveling along at a good speed when the tail light of another car was observed ahead of it at that time the Larabee was proceeding down grade. Kline continued to drive ahead at a good speed until within 10 or 15 feet of the car ahead when he applied his brakes with force. The Larabee skidded and left the road and turned over several times.

Defendant's claim that the accident was unavoidable and that a car ahead of them suddenly stopped in the road causing a rapid application of the brakes of the truck. It is claimed that there was a car, the driver of which was not produced, which stopped and caused the accident, and it was stated that the driver of that car was a woman who had several children in the car and that after the accident she was unconscious. The driver of another car who was accompanied by a young woman was produced. He had been driving ahead of the truck and testified that he had been driving from 25 to 30 miles an hour. The plaintiff claims that it was this car which was being overtaken by the Larabee and that it was this car which was observed just prior to the accident. Roodney was 19 years old at the time of the accident. Judge Jenkins appeared for plaintiff and Ireland, Caverly & Hanley were attorneys of record for the defendant. District Attorney O'Connor of Roxbury appeared for the New York counsel and tried the case.

Suspect Indian Of Burglary

Sheriff Wells was informed this morning by Sergeant Alford of the State Troopers that Wednesday evening the house of John O. Linn near Centerville, town of Lloyd, had been entered through a window that had been broken open and a burglary committed. A mole skin overcoat, a pair of blue trousers, a pair of shoes, socks and other articles were stolen. Chester Waterman, an Indian from the New York state reservation near Syracuse, who had been working for Linn and who has disappeared is suspected. He is about thirty-five years of age and has a scar on one side of his face near the nose.

Operators Will Continue Fight

Warner Says Governor Pinchot's Proposals Are Fanciful And Impracticable—Says Government Should Not Intervene.

Washington, Dec. 10.—Neither federal nor state intervention in the anthracite coal strike is necessary, Samuel D. Warner, head of the anthracite operators, declared today in addressing the American Mining Congress here.

Warner characterized Governor Pinchot's proposals to end the strike as impracticable and chimerical and virtually served notice that the operators will continue their fight against the United Mine Workers demands along present lines.

"From a practical standpoint," said Warner, "the governor of Pennsylvania might as well have divided a pot of gold at the end of a rainbow as to expect that his chimerical proposition would promote the interests of the industry and its workers and at the same time satisfy the reasonable expectations of the consuming public."

"There never should have been any attempt to impose the authority of government intervention upon an industry when the owners have consistently been willing to submit their case to impartial arbitration without reservation, and no judge, self-appointed or otherwise, should presume to render a decision without at least hearing both sides of the case."

Warner went back into the history of the Roosevelt settlement in his efforts to show that the United Mine Workers is really "a bituminous institution" seeking to impose its will in the anthracite field. The anthracite operators resent, he said in effect, a bituminous organization coming between "men and management" of the anthracite industry.

"National union strategy, influenced by bituminous policies, has been substituted for the 'men and management' plan of industrial government established by the Roosevelt commission," he said. "This, together with the interference of a strike as a weapon first to be used instead of a weapon last to be used, has produced industrial chaos."

Warner said President Coolidge's recommendation to Congress giving the government power to compel statistics and facts in time of emergency should be approved.

He declared, however, that the government should attempt no more regulation of anthracite coal prices than it does of prices of other products in industry.

Struck With Ice, Gets $45,000

White Plains, N. Y., Dec. 10.—Struck on the head by a cake of ice thrown by a fellow employee of the New Haven railroad, while he was switching cars in the Meriden, Conn., yards, Frank J. McCann, of 3 Hendrickson Place, Waterbury, Conn., today was awarded $45,000 damages against the railroad company by a jury in the Supreme court here.

The jury last night returned a sealed verdict, which was opened in court this morning.

McCann claimed that a negro porter was filling a water cooler in one of the yard buildings when the heavy cake of ice, balanced on the sill of an open window, slipped off and struck him as he was passing the building.

Although he is able to move about since then McCann alleged he has suffered from various mental and nervous troubles.

McCann sued for $50,000.

FARMERS' ALMANAC READY FOR DISTRIBUTION

The Farmers' Almanac for 1926 has arrived in town and copies will be supplied to those who call for them at the Ulster County Savings Institution, by which bank they have been issued for a number of years.

The Farmers' Almanac is an ancient and much prized publication throughout Ulster county, and in addition to the usual almanac information it contains a large amount of general, useful information of interest to householders, farmers, stock and poultry raisers.

Another interesting feature of the Farmers' Almanac is the prediction of weather conditions throughout the year. The forecast is prepared by an expert forecaster and is compiled from weather charts covering a long period of years. The weather is not predicted in accordance with anybody's whim, and when the prediction goes astray, the weather man himself is to blame and not anybody connected with the bank or the almanac is to blame.

Orange and Chenango Are Winning Counties.
The Orange county junior project poultry judging team goes to the Madison Square Garden show in January. The team won this privilege by their judging at the fourth annual production poultry show at Cornell University, Ithaca, on December 1-3.

Their expenses will be paid by the Tigua Mill and Elevator Company of Waverly. The team is made up of Sam Ayres, of Warwick; Ray Houston, of Belvidere; and John L. Rue of State Hill. The other counties entering teams in the contest at Ithaca were Chenango, Delaware, Livingston, Oneida, Nassau, Tompkins and Warren.

Chenango county again won the Tigua Mill and Elevator Company's sweepstakes cup offered to the juniors of any county winning the most points at the exhibition. This is the second leg on the cup, and another win gives it to them permanently.

Orange and Delaware counties were tied in the exhibition team class, with 520 points each. The high individual total score honors were also a tie between Sheldon Burdick of Delaware county and Esther Fowler of Tompkins county. The high individual production score was 230 points, made by Sheldon Burdick of Delaware county, and the high individual exhibition score was 254 points, made by Harry Frazier of Tompkins county.

Father Absolves Smith of Blame

Son Was Struck and Killed by Late's Auto but Reginald Lapo Does Not Blame Motorist.
Rivard D. Smith of Woodstock on Wednesday evening about 5:30 while running an automobile on the road to Bearsville, struck Leslie R. Lapo, aged seven, causing his death. The accident happened near the residence of Dr. M. B. Downer, the boy being picked up by a son of Dr. Downer, and carried into the house.

Examination showed the boy was dead, his skull having been fractured. Young Lapo had been sent by his mother to get some milk from the store nearby and was crossing the road towards his home carrying a milk can in a bottle when struck by the auto. He was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Lapo, the father being a U. S. mail carrier.

Coroner W. M. Conner was notified and went to Woodstock and with Sergeant James Cunningham and State Trooper Conner made an investigation. Mr. Smith stated that he had not seen the boy on the road, it being dusk at the time of the accident, and was deeply shocked over the killing of the boy. People who know Mr. Smith stated that he was careful and a driver of experience.

Mr. Smith said he would make whatever restitution in any way that was possible for him to do but Mr. Lapo, who has been well acquainted with Mr. Smith, told the coroner in the presence of the State Trooper that he was not inclined to make charges against Mr. Smith, and was of the opinion that his boy had been hit through accident and not carelessness. He was willing to absolve him from blame. The body of the boy was placed in charge of Undertaker Victor Lusher.

Funeral services will be held from the Woodstock Reformed Church on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, interment in the Woodstock cemetery.

Ruth Gives "Red" Grange Advice

Pittsburgh, Pa. Dec. 10.—It was a tired, weary and disheartened Red Grange who limped off the train here this morning, ducked the waiting crowds and disappeared to a private home away from the turmoil and the shouting, seeking to find a few moments of seclusion from the most strenuous program a young football hero ever faced.

Red Grange, who only a few short hours ago was a hero, is now more a curiosity. He is fighting a losing battle with publicity that raised him to the heights and now threatens to beat him down again into the depths from which he emerged. Grange isn't physically sick, only sick at heart—disheartened with the weariness which makes good play impossible, hurt by the tendency of the crowd to boo and jeer him overwhelmed by the crowding hordes of fans who dog him at every turn, denying him even the privilege of eating or sleeping in quiet, denying him the right to a single moment of privacy.

Among other callers at Red's quarters yesterday was Babe Ruth, and these two men—most highly exploited athletes in the country—were photographed together. The Babe, wise in the ways of the fan world, paused to give Red some sound advice. The best perhaps that he has heard since the United States finally succumbed to its attack of Grange hysteria.

"Don't be too thin skinned," was the Babe's opening shot. "You've got to expect a lot of knocks in the professional racket, and you've got to take a lot of criticism and a lot of insults that you didn't get before. But keep your head up—and don't be afraid to say 'no' when the pressure gets too rough."

"Get the dough while the getting is good—but don't break your own heart trying to get it," was the Babe's parting shot. "I would have been a lot better off myself if I hadn't listened to fall guys when they talked me about spending my coin."

Today Grange is slated to do his stuff at Dreyfus Park, scene of the last world series.

WILL CLOSE MAJOR LEAGUE SEASONS EARLIER.

New York, Dec. 10.—Although the National and American leagues agreed to disagree over Judge Landis's plan to start the 1926 world series on October 1, the commissioner's project probably will be carried through at least in modified form, at the joint meeting of the leagues today. The Americans recommended September 26 as their closing date. The Nationals recommended October 3 but added that they could close the books September 29, if necessary.

The American League frowned upon the suggestion that the pitchers be allowed to use resin, that holiday games be played between eastern and western teams and that all games halted by rain before the completion of four innings be resumed the following day at the point of interruption.

EIGHT RUSSIAN BANDITS KILLED IN A BATTLE

Kursk, Russia, Dec. 10.—Eight bandits, four of them women, and two militiamen were killed in a pistol and hand grenade battle between members of the militia and bandits here today.

The bandits, led by the daughter of a former wealthy merchant of Kursk, took refuge in the home of a deacon. The battle resulting in the killings followed when the soldiery attempted to storm the house.

Cork Leg Proves No Handicap to Griddler

Although Beryl Hunter, nineteen, has a cork leg, he is a regular member of the Centre Point (In.) high school football team. He plays center.

Coach Alfred Kline said the boy is a good player; that he makes his tackles along with the rest of the squad, and asks no favors because of his handicap. "He is a game youngster," Coach Kline declared, "and I use him as center because he is the best player we have for that position."

Last year Beryl played on the basketball team.

MICKEY WALKER IS GREAT AS FIGHTER

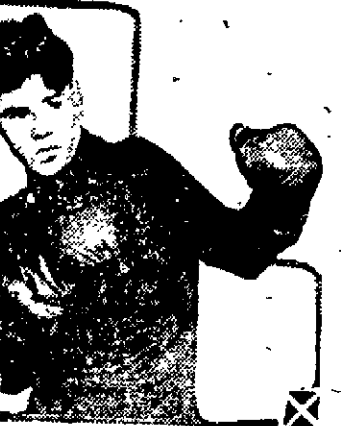

Manager Leo Flynn Has Nothing but Praise for Game Welterweight.

"Mickey Walker is a great little fighter and don't make any mistake about it. He'll be a better fighter and the best card in the country if he goes about it right."

The speaker was, strange to say, Leo Flynn, manager of Dave Shade, the California welterweight.

"I'm not getting anything for too long Walker's horn," he said. "It's one way of saying that my fellow, Shade, is the greatest fighter of his weight and size in the ring. I thought he beat Walker that night when the judges said he didn't, but that's all over."

"Walker is a great little fighter. If he wasn't he couldn't even hold Shade close. Outside of Shade he hasn't a fighter in his class to bother him. They're all talking about Mickey Walker.

Harmon and Zivic, but Harmon could not go four rounds with him, and Zivic isn't rugged enough right now, although he's got more promise than any youngster I have seen.

"Walker ought to stay in his own class. He can lick any of those fellows and he could make himself the best card in the game today. How did Dempsey and Leonard become such drawing cards? I'll tell you. They went out, when they were in their active days, and knocked off every head that stuck up in their class. Greb is doing the same thing now and he's cashing in plenty and keeping himself in shape by fighting. Walker could do the same thing.

"Some of the boys were blaming me for telling Shade to play safe in the fifteenth round of his fight with Walker. I didn't tell him anything of the kind. On the contrary, I told him to go out and take the lead away from Walker and keep it. I told him that he was out in front, but I added that he would have to take the last round to make it good and strong."

British Oppose Lighter Golf Ball in Tourneys

The proposal that a lighter ball should be played in the amateur and open golf championship next year was rejected at the business meeting of the Royal and Ancient club, held in the clubhouse at St. Andrews.

James Younger, of Mount Melville, captain of the club, was in the chair at the meeting, and at the suggestion of the golf balls subcommittee, the rules of golf committee proposed that:

"The championship committee be requested to announce that in the amateur and open championships of 1926 only a ball measuring not less than 1.68 inches in diameter and weighing not more than 1.53 ounces shall be played."

A large majority of the 150 members present found themselves unable to accept the proposal on the ground that the championship competitions are held in order to select the champion of the day as ordinarily played, and that they should not be used for purposes of experiment.

Coach Andy Smith Gives Out Some Qualifications

Coach Andy Smith of the University of California football squad, which has started its sixth undefeated season, gives the four qualifications for success in playing the game as aggressiveness, obedience, concentration and determination. Smith says: "We do not want men on our varsity who may lie down bravely to die, but men who will fight to live. The fighters who are obedient to the coaches and training rules, who will make the fastest progress, are the men who are able to concentrate their minds upon their work. Too often I have seen men fall because of lack of determination."

Greyhound Racing.

Miami, Fla., Dec. 10.—Greyhound racing in America will be on a million dollar basis next year and will be governed like big league baseball. A national association embracing greyhound racing plants in nine western and southern cities and comprising three circuits will be formed in Miami on March 2, it was announced here later.
